

Disability Support Unit

Cordially invites you to the 2022 Disability Online Research Indaba

The COVID-19 pandemic created opportunities for institutes of higher learning to readdress, adapt, and transform teaching and learning pedagogy towards more blended approaches, to successfully deliver established academic programs. Since the emergence of the pandemic and the transition to the “New Normal”, there has been greater attention to contextual realities, new trajectories, and spaces to embed the evolution of disability specific service delivery, to support student perseverance, retention, and success outcomes. Essentially, this enabled more inclusive and wider access and participation to institutes of higher learning in the face of extreme adversity. As we proceed towards a post-pandemic higher education landscape, it is essential that the transitional measures that have emerged throughout the COVID-19 moment are embraced fully to establish a truly inclusive higher education setting.

You are cordially invited by UKZN’s Disability Support Unit to attend the 2022 Disability Online Research Indaba to be held on 12 October 2022, which has been themed as:
“The new normal”: Embracing a post-pandemic inclusive higher education landscape.

Date: 12 October 2022
Time: 08h00-16h30

To register for this free online event, please RSVP here.
Please contact Dr Ashley Subbiah for enquiries only
Email: subbiaha1@ukzn.ac.za

