Dr. Auschala is a new Dean and an outstanding academic of the Faculty of Social Administration at Thammasat University. From the time I know her she has been a dynamic leader of both of the faculty and students in social work and social policy introducing international curriculum and a balanced view in social political landscape. Her illustrious career at Thammasat University demonstrated strategic vision, inclusive leadership and people-centered ways of working that enhanced the contribution to enhance Thammasat as an international University in academic teaching and research in social work with a number of MOUs signed with prestigious Universities in Asia, Europe and USA. She has also published numerous articles and papers in SCOPUS-level international journals. I believe she will bring an Asian, yet global perspective as a diligent member of the Board of IASSW. She will represent a strong female academic perspective with diversity and will contribute to enhancing the profile and reputation of IASSW in the Asia Pacific region, and beyond.
