“International Social Work Beyond its Centennial Anniversary Theory Debate (Disappearance or Expansion, Reform or New Construction?)”

The Asian Research Institute for International Social Work (ARIISW) will organize the pre-centennial celebration for International Social Work in February 2024.

The 8th ARIISW International Academic Forum have invited two leading researchers, Professor Emeritus Lynne Healy (University of Connecticut) and Professor Manohar Pawar (Charles Sturt University), as key lecturers.

The concept of Globalization now runs unchecked all over the world. Irrespective of national borders, the people, their level of awareness or their culture, it spreads out at an unstoppable pace. But even so, social work, both within and without, has to be aware. How will social work develop from now on? How will International Social Work contribute to the development of social work itself? Lecturers will be sharing their journey in International Social Work theory and the prospects for its future.

Ahead of the historic milestone of the 100th anniversary of International Social Work, ARIISW-Shukutoku University will begin a discussion with the participants with a view to stepping forward into the next several decades.
